              THE COURT: Thank you. Good morning.
 2
              For Ms. Boylan?
 3
              MS. GERCHIK: Good morning, Your Honor.
 4
     Julie Gerchik of Glaser Weil, on behalf of 5
     non-party, Ms. Boylan, and I have my colleague, Alex Miller with me.
 6
 7
              THE COURT: Sure. Thank you.
8
              Anyone else who is appearing that would 9
     like to make themselves known?
10
              MS. LONGLEY: Good morning, Your Honor.
11
     This is Serena -- Hi, it's Serena Longley from the 12
     New York Attorney General's Office. I don't have 13
     anything I plan to bring up, but as you encouraged, 14
     we are here in case you need us.
                           Okay. Thank you so much for 15
              THE COURT:
16
     being here. I hope that's the case.
17
              All right. Anyone else?
18
              MS OEHLKE: And this is Chris Oehlke of 19
     Perry Law, on behalf of non-party, Lindsey Boylan as 20
     well.
21
              THE COURT: All right. Thank you.
22
              All right. So the way that I would like to 23 proceed today is to address the issues first involving the two nonparties, Ms. Boylan and
25
     Ms. Cuomo, in the hope that we may be able to resolve those first, and then they can be excused from the conference.

Ms. Longley, I don't have anything that the parties have raised in their letters about the OAG. You're welcome to stay on if you like just in case, but, hopefully, given that there was nothing raised in the letters, that we don't have anything to address to the OAG today.

So starting with Ms. Boylan, it looked like from the parties' letters that Ms. Boylan's production was going to be beginning earlier this week on a rolling basis.

So, Ms. Gerchik, would you or one of your colleagues be able to give me an update on where things stand?

MS. GERCHIK: Of course, Your Honor. This is Ms. Gerchik.

So we did begin on a rolling basis. We produced some documents on Wednesday. We have gone through a large chunk of the documents so far, but we've gone through them a little more quickly than we expect to be going through them as we go forward, unfortunately, but only because, honestly, we've, you know, been able to go through most of the spam and junk mail first. And it's been, you know, quite

1 a quick review. But we did do our initial 2 production. We produced on Wednesday. And we're 3 going to continue on an on-going basis. 4 THE COURT: Okay. All right. 5 Any anticipation as to how many more 6 productions there might be or when you might be 7 finished? 8 MS. GERCHIK: It's a little hard to say. 9 It's a little hard to say right now. I mean, where 10 we -- just so Your Honor knows, where we ended up 11 was that we agreed -- really just because we thought it was more efficient than having to go through 12 13 motion practice. So we basically agreed to review 14 somewhere in the neighborhood of about 45,000 documents. 15 16 THE COURT: Okay. 17 MS. GERCHIK: Which is quite a lot, 18 particularly for a non-party. 19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. 20 appreciate that. 21 Ms. Glavin, you or anybody from your team, 22 is there anything you'd like to raise about 23 Ms. Boylan's production thus far? 24 MS. GLAVIN: No, Your Honor, not at this 25 We received the documents, or the initial tranche on Wednesday, and we really have not had a chance to get through those just based on some other document productions this week. THE COURT: Okay. MS. GLAVIN: So we'll just be in touch with Ms. Boylan's counsel. THE COURT: All right. Good. All right. I appreciate you working together. So sounds like that process is well underway. Ms. Schnell or Ms. Green, anything you want to raise as to Ms. Boylan while we have her counsel on the line? MS. SCHNELL: No, Your Honor. THE COURT: Anything anybody else would like to raise as to Ms. Boylan? Good. Okay. Well, Ms. Gerchik, thank you to you and your colleagues for being here today. You're welcome to stay if you like, but I think the only other thing we'll be doing at the conclusion of this conference is just setting a date for our next status conference. So you're welcome to stay if you want to be heard on the timing of that, otherwise,

AMM TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE - 631.334.1445

we'll just issue an order that includes a date for our next status conference, which would cover all

1
     the issues that we're talking about today, as well 2
     as anything having to do with Ms. Boylan. But it 3
     doesn't sound like there's any ripe issues, at the moment, at least.
 4
5
              MS. GERCHIK: All right. Thank you,
 6
     Your Honor.
7
              THE COURT: All right.
8
              MS. GERCHIK: Thank you.
 9
              THE COURT: Very good.
                                       Thank you.
10
              Okay. So next I'd like to turn to 11
     Ms. Bennett's letter concerning the deposition 12 subpoena to Ms. Cuomo.
13
              And so it looks like, you know, there may 14
     be some potential points of agreement, but let me -- since the issue was first raised by Ms. Bennett, 15
16
     I'll give Ms. Bennett's counsel the floor first, and 17
     then I'll hear from Ms. Cuomo's counsel.
18
              MS. SCHNELL: Good morning again, 19
     Your Honor. This is Laura Schnell.
20
               I don't know that there's agreement.
21
     mean, we certainly want to take Ms. Cuomo's 22 deposition. We've agreed that the deposition would 23
     not happen until after the other defendants' 24 depositions have taken place. But we do want to get a date in place now so that we can meet the 25

discovery deadline.

THE COURT: Sure. Okay.

Mr. Pikus, are you still objecting altogether to the deposition subpoena to your client?

MR. PIKUS: We are, Your Honor. And if I may, if it please the Court, I'd just like to explain why we're concerned about this.

You know, it's easy to say, well, what's wrong with sitting for an hour or two and giving testimony? Our concern plainly and simply is that we've demonstrated to the plaintiff already that there's no nexus between Governor Cuomo and his sister in terms of any instructions. And our concern here is that the plaintiff has an ulterior motive. And that's reinforced by the fact that this New York Times article on which they rely was a bit of bootstrapping because we think that if they didn't instigate it directly, they certainly were big promoters of the content of that article, some of which is either untrue or misleading.

And the attorneys for the plaintiff have appeared on CNN, as well as giving interviews to The New York Times denouncing my client publicly. She's not a state employee. She's never been an employee of her brother, you know. She's his sister and that's the connection. And we don't, frankly, want to give them an opportunity to cause harassment or embarrassment of the governor's family. You know, he can speak for himself.

The other points we make are that, number one, this is really a sideshow. Whatever Ms. Cuomo may or may not have done is really not material to the overall case here. The stay of discovery was --excuse me -- the denial of the motion to stay discovery came on dueling applications by the parties and really didn't address a very peripheral non-party. So we continue to submit that the deposition should at least be stayed until there's a ruling on the retaliation claims.

And we also think that our conditions for the deposition, if it's allowed to go forward, are reasonable. I know that the plaintiff -- and we thank them -- they've agreed at least to limit the time period in accordance with the Court's prior order.

But the one thing I really want to emphasize is that the argument here that the plaintiff makes is a little crafty. Nothing in these quotes that they make from these few text messages that they provide, such as, you know, he appreciates -- meaning the governor -- the governor appreciates what you did or that he's seen what they did -- those are not instructions.

You know, saying that a political figure appreciates something that his supporters did is hardly proof of the reason that they're arguing that they need Ms. Cuomo's deposition. They're claiming that she acted at the behest and was an agent of her brother, and none of these quotes that they've given Your Honor support that. You know, at best, he was aware of what she was doing, and that doesn't outweigh the embarrassment, the time, the cost.

This has been very costly to my client.

She had to make a motion in which she was substantially successful. She now has to argue this motion as well. She'll probably want representation at the deposition. This is just a staggering cost for a non-party, especially under the circumstances.

That's what we have to say.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, as I read the text messages though, Mr. Pikus, with all due respect, she does seem to have knowledge and have taken some actions that are arguably relevant to Ms. Bennett's claims in this case, as well as to Mr. Cuomo's defenses.

So I think it is fair to say that based on the record that we have as of today, that your client does have some knowledge that is relevant, like I said, both to the claims and defenses. And, on that basis, that a deposition, albeit, you know, very limited, both in time period as well as the duration of her deposition are warranted. It seems like there's agreement that it would not be held until after party depositions in this case.

But I believe, and my ruling is that, Ms. Cuomo, based on the record as of today, should be deposed, should sit for her deposition pursuant to the subpoena that she's received. Like I said, I'm willing to limit it as to both time period, scope, as well as duration, but I think we should get a date for it on the calendar.

Obviously, if there's something that arises -- you know, I'm not going to stay it until we have a ruling from Judge Broderick on the retaliation claim. But in between now and the date that the deposition is scheduled for, if there's a ruling from Judge Broderick that you think changes that analysis, the analysis that I just described, then you're welcome to renew your request. But

1 given how much we have to get done in this case, I'm 2 trying to avoid deferring too many issues until 3 later on in the case. So I would like to get a date on the calendar for your client's deposition. 4 5 And my proposal is consistent with the 6 plaintiff's letter, that we limit the time period, 7 the scope of the deposition to February 27, 2021 through September 14, 2022, and that the deposition 8 9 be no longer than two hours of on-the-record time. 10 Can you work with Ms. Cuomo to get some 11 dates from her later in our discovery period? Our 12 fact discovery cutoff is in August, so presumably it 13 would be sometime a little bit down the road, after 14 the party depositions have taken place, but to get some dates from her that you can share with the 15 16 parties to the case so that we can get her on the 17 calendar? 18 MR. PIKUS: Certainly, Your Honor. 19 THE COURT: Okay. Wonderful. Thank you. 20 MR. PIKUS: Thank you. 21 THE COURT: All right. So just to clarify, her deposition will be limited to two hours, the 22 23 time period limited as I just stated, and to take 24 place after the party depositions. 25 MR. PIKUS: May I just inquire, Your Honor?

     I'm sorry, but being a non-party, I have less knowledge than the others about the schedule.
 2
 3
              THE COURT: Certainly.
 4
              MR. PIKUS:
                           The plaintiff's attorneys had 5
     said something about the deposition deadline being June 30th, and Your Honor had mentioned August.
 6
 7
              THE COURT:
                           Right. So -- yes.
8
              MR. PIKUS: Could I impose on Your Honor to 9
     clarify that for us, please.
10
              THE COURT: Yes, I'll clarify that.
11
              The deposition deadline is June 30th, and 12
     our fact discovery cutoff altogether is August 15th.
13
              MR. PIKUS: So would you say that the 14 cutoff for Ms. Cuomo's deposition would be June 30th then or would it be August?
15
16
              THE COURT:
                           I think the goal would be to 17 finish it by then. But, as I said, we are keyed to 18 finishing the party depositions first before her 19 deposition. So given that she is a non-party and we 20
     have a lot to get through, I will certainly be 21
     flexible, if we're not able to accommodate all the 22
     caveats that we've said about scheduling her 23
     deposition.
                  If it doesn't occur before June 30th,
24
     I'll be reasonable about that.
25
                           Okay. That's fair.
              MR. PIKUS:
```

1 THE COURT: But let's aim for getting a 2 date for the end of June with her, and then if it 3 needs to slide because, you know, there's another party deposition that's important to take place 4 before hers, then we can reassess, all right? 5 6 MR. PIKUS: Thank you so much, Your Honor. 7 THE COURT: Okay. All right. 8 MR. PIKUS: Are we excused at this point? 9 THE COURT: Before I let you go --10 Ms. Schnell, anything else as to Ms. Cuomo 11 before we let Mr. Pikus go? 12 MS. SCHNELL: No, Your Honor, although I 13 certainly don't see any reason why this shouldn't 14 happen before June 30th, especially if it's a two-hour deposition. 15 16 And with respect to the two hours, 17 Your Honor, if we reach two hours and there is a 18 very discrete -- things we have not gotten to 19 question her about, I'm hoping we could come back to 20 the Court to get a -- you know, some brief 21 additional time, if necessary. 22 THE COURT: Well, certainly, I would ask 23 you to be efficient, and then you can ask Mr. Pikus 24 in the first instance if he's willing to accommodate

AMM TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE - 631.334.1445

And if not, then yes.

that.

1
              MS. SCHNELL: Thank you, Your Honor.
 2
              THE COURT: And --
 3
              MR. PIKUS: Okay. Thank you. Have a good 4
     weekend, everyone.
 5
              THE COURT:
                           Okay. Thank you very much.
 6
              MR. PIKUS:
                          Bye now.
 7
              THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.
8
              So then the next issue, I think, that 9
     Ms. Bennett had raised was her request for 10 production to Mr. Cuomo, numbers 52 and 70.
11
              Ms. Schnell, is that an issue that you or 12
     owe of your colleagues can address?
13
              MS. GREEN: Rachel Green -- 14
              MR. MORVILLO: Your Honor, this is Greg 15
     Morvillo. I'm sorry. I'm hearing some background
             It feels like somebody's outside or on a 16
     noise.
17 boat. Could -- 18
              THE COURT: A little bit, yes.
19
              MR. MORVILLO: If you would be willing to 20
     ask that person to mute their phone, that would be 21
     very helpful.
22
              THE COURT: Yes. I can't tell who it is,
     but if you're outside and not speaking, if you could 23
24
     please mute your line for us.
25
              Much better. Thank you.

Thank you, Mr. Morvillo.

Okay. So on Ms. Bennett's team, somebody who could address RFPs 52 and 70.

MS. GREEN: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning.
This is, again, Rachel Green on behalf of Ms. Bennett.

As we wrote in our filing, defendants have confirmed that they are withholding responsive documents for these two RFPs, 52 and 70. They listed nearly a dozen objections to RFP 52 and about six or so to RFP 70, but they have not made clear pursuant to which objections they are withholding responsive documents. So we request that a defendant be required to specify the objections on which he is standing, and also set a briefing schedule so that we can move to compel production responses to those two requests.

THE COURT: Yeah. Not super psyched about more briefing, so let's try to work this out today.

So I'm trying to understand request numbers 52 and 70. So, with respect to request number 52, it is, "All documents concerning or relating to any statements made by your attorneys or communications team that you allege were false or not authorized by you."

1 So, in the first instance, has Mr. Cuomo 2 asserted so far in this litigation that his 3 attorneys or communications team made statements that he did not authorize? 4 5 MS. GREEN: Not so far, as far as I'm 6 Although I'd be happy to be corrected if Defendant Cuomo has, indeed, made that and we missed 7 8 it. But no, not so far. 9 THE COURT: Okay. So what is this request 10 then trying to go after? If that's not something 11 that's been asserted, why is it a live issue? MS. GREEN: Well, Your Honor, if he does 12 13 later assert it or state that some of his statements 14 or many of the statements made by his team were 15 false or not authorized by him, it goes directly to plaintiff's causes of action 2, 7 and 11, and, 16 17 therefore, is relevant to her causes of action. 18 THE COURT: All right. 19 Ms. Glavin, would you or one of your 20 colleagues like to respond? 21 MS. GLAVIN: Yes. Hi, Judge. It's Rita Glavin. 22 23 THE COURT: Thank you. MS. GLAVIN: I actually was surprised by 24 25 the letter because I did not think that this was AMM TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE - 631.334.1445 going to be sent to Your Honor on March 15th. We had a meet and confer about this several weeks ago --

THE COURT: Right.

MS. GLAVIN: And I think I had explained on both -- Request 52 about -- this read more like an interrogatory. And I said, you know, you're asking for some type of admission here, and so I just said the wording of this is just -- is wrong for a document request.

I didn't think it was a proper document request, how it was worded, because I don't know that Governor Cuomo has alleged that his attorney said something that was, you know, false or unauthorized. And they can certainly question him about that at his deposition.

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. GLAVIN: And so we had actually had a meet and confer with plaintiff's counsel on March 14th in anticipation of having to get status letters to the Court. And this didn't come up on that call, so I just, you know, assumed this was not a live issue. I don't think it should be a live issue, you know.

And with respect to 70, I had also read that document request to be, you know, improper, and, you know, it was making more of a statement.

We certainly are producing what are responsive documents in Governor Cuomo's possession, custody and control. And, you know, we're going back. And to the extent there are things that are responsive, we, of course, will produce them. But with respect to these two particular requests, it just seemed like more of a statement and they were seeking some type of an admission that, you know, was more appropriate for a deposition.

So I was surprised this got raised. I don't think that it's ripe. I'm happy to discuss it further with plaintiff's counsel. I don't think this is something that needs to have any type of briefing.

THE COURT: And is it correct, my statement that I made to Ms. Green -- and she seemed to agree was the case -- you're not changing the position that to date at least, Mr. Cuomo has not alleged that any statement made by his attorneys or his communications team was false or not authorized?

MS. GLAVIN: Well, with respect to that,

I'm not aware that he's ever said -- without waiving any privilege -- and let's be clear about

1 that because they're --2 THE COURT: Sure. Sure. 3 MS. GLAVIN: They're certainly talking 4 about -- what they're getting at is communications 5 Governor Cuomo, you know, may have had with me, and 6 certainly, it's in the context of an attorney-client 7 relationship. So we can't waive privilege on that. 8 But I'm not aware of him coming out, you 9 know, in any other forum and indicating that I've 10 said, you know, something false -- because I think 11 it's directed at me -- or, you know, that his 12 attorneys aren't his representatives. 13 THE COURT: Sure. 14 MS. GLAVIN: But I think it's certainly 15 grounds, you know, to ask him about in his 16 deposition to the extent it doesn't trample on 17 privilege. 18 THE COURT: Okay. 19 MS. GLAVIN: And this all then goes to the retaliation claims, which Your Honor knows is 20 21 pending before Judge Broderick. 22 Right. Of course. All right. THE COURT: 23 So, Ms. Green, just sticking with number 52 24 for a second. It seems like this is a nonissue at 25 this point in time. And it also seems like, based

1 on what Ms. Glavin just said, that Mr. Cuomo will be 2 prepared at his deposition to answer that question 3 one way or the other, whether there's any statement that his attorneys or his communications team made 4 5 that he believes were false or unauthorized. 6 So on the representation that we can 7 address that, you know, you can pose this question 8 in his deposition, it seems like it's a nonissue at 9 this point in terms of document requests. 10 MS. GREEN: I understand, Your Honor. 11 If I may just respond very briefly for the 12 record --13 THE COURT: Sure. 14 MS. GREEN: -- on several points. 15 THE COURT: Okay. 16 MS. GREEN: Just to be quite clear, the 17 purpose of this request is because the plaintiff 18 alleges that Defendant Cuomo, through his agents, 19 Rita Glavin, including his entire comms team, 20 deliberately smeared her across numerous occasions. 21 And so seeking these documents is directly relevant to those claims. 22 23 And then as far as Ms. Glavin's point about whether this is right, as we put in our letter to 24 25 the Court, we did meet and confer on February 26th.

We did state our objections. She indicated that they were standing on their objections, and we informed them we were at an impasse, so we do believe that we, you know, complied with this Court's rules on the matter.

And then, finally, we did raise requests for admission on this topic, multiple ones. I cited a couple in Footnote 2 to Docket 216 requesting Defendant Cuomo to admit -- you know, I have -- Request for Admission number 111 stated, "Please admit that Defendant Cuomo was aware of the public statements his legal representatives made about plaintiff."

Number 112 states, "Please admit that all public comments made by Rita Glavin on behalf of Defendant Cuomo about plaintiff were authorized by Defendant Cuomo."

So to the point of whether these are sort of styled as interrogatories, we did make these requests for admission. And to be clear, he did not answer. And, in fact, he objected to both of those requests for admission and stated that the requests were premature.

THE COURT: Right.

MS. GREEN: And so we certainly will be

1 prepared to ask him about this at his deposition. 2 THE COURT: Right. 3 MS. GREEN: But we do maintain that any 4 responsive documents are certainly relevant to 5 plaintiff's claims. 6 THE COURT: All right. Well, you can 7 maintain that position, but I'm not compelling 8 Mr. Cuomo to respond to RFPs any differently or any 9 further or make any production as to RFP number 52 10 at this time. 11 To the extent that there are issues with requests for admission, we'll address those --12 13 requests for admission should come at the end of 14 discovery. They're not a discovery device. So to the extent there are disputes about requests for 15 16 admission and the responses to those, we'll cover 17 that down the road. But at this point, I don't 18 think that there's anything further that needs to be 19 done as to RFP number 52. 20 Now, turning to number 70, I'm trying to 21 understand who the "hes" and the "hers" are in this. 22 So am I interpreting RFP number 70 23 correctly that Ms. Bennett asserts that Ms. Mogul 24 made a statement that Mr. Cuomo's actions did not rise to the level of sexual harassment?

1
              But then there's a reference to grooming 2
     "her" when she made "her" complaint. Is the "her" 3
     Ms. Mogul, or is the "her" Ms. Bennett, or is the 4
     "her" somebody else?
5
              MS. GREEN:
                          Thank you, Your Honor. I'm 6
     happy to provide clarification on that.
7
              THE COURT: Okay. Great.
8
              MS. GREEN: "He" refers to Defendant
 9
     Cuomo -- was still grooming her. The "her" refers 10
     to plaintiff -- when she, plaintiff, made her, 11
     plaintiff, complaint.
12
              THE COURT: Okay. So Ms. Mogul made some 13
     separate statement. And I don't have the complaint 14 open in front of me, but the premise of this RFP is that Ms. Mogul made some statement characterizing 15
16
     Ms. Bennett's complaint, right?
17
              MS. GREEN: Yes. As grooming and not 18 rising to the level of sexual harassment. That's correct, Your Honor.
19 20
              THE COURT: Okay. And so you're seeking, 21
     for example, any communications between Ms. Mogul and Mr. Cuomo about that particular statement?
22
23
              MS. GREEN: Yes. Or any relating to that 24 statement. So they could be communications between 25
     others that Defendant Cuomo has in his possession,

1 custody, or control. But, yes, relating to that, 2 statement. 3 And, you know, Defendant Cuomo, one of his 4 objections, many objections to this request includes 5 construing the term "complaint" to mean 6 "allegation," and then construing the language used 7 in the request to avoid anything resembling acquiescing to plaintiff's allegation about Mogul 8 9 having made that. 10 And so, given the narrowing that he 11 provided in his objection, if he has responses, 12 documents under those conditions, you know, he 13 should still be obligated to produce them to 14 plaintiff. 15 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Glavin, do you want 16 to add anything further? You touched on 70 earlier, 17 but --18 MS. GLAVIN: Yeah. 19 THE COURT: -- more procedurally, if you want to respond to what Ms. Green said --20 21 MS. GLAVIN: Yeah. Your Honor, one of the 22 fundamental problems with how this is worded is Judy 23 Mogul, who was a counsel to the governor in the 24 Executive Chamber --25 THE COURT: Right.

MS. GLAVIN: She never made this statement or conclusion. It's not true. You just have to read her testimony with the OAG. This is plaintiff, you know, trying to interpret, you know, Ms. Mogul's notes. But, you know, Ms. Mogul's counsel is on this call, and they might address it.

But the fundamental basis of this is a characterization of something that they're claiming Ms. Mogul said, which she didn't say or conclude. And that was the problem with this document request. It's just, as we said, vague, ambiguous, mischaracterizes Ms. Mogul, who was, you know, also a counsel to the governor.

THE COURT: Right. Well, I don't think I've been subtle about my inability to, sort of, understand the premise of the RFP, but let me just ask. And, Mr. Delikat, I do want to hear from you --

MR. DELIKAT: Yes.

THE COURT: But let me just ask another question of Ms. Glavin first, and that is, the searches and production of Mr. Cuomo's documents that are being done, do they otherwise include communications or other documents between him and Ms. Mogul concerning Ms. Bennett's allegations,

     complaint -- however you characterize her 2
     assertions?
 3
              MS. GLAVIN: Your Honor, I think that we 4 would have produced anything that's nonprivileged,
     you know, that's relevant to her allegations.
 5
 6
              THE COURT: Okay. And is -- 7
              MS. GLAVIN: I don't know off the top of my 8
     head, but if it were nonprivileged -- because we 9
     went through -- I mean, of course, we went through 10
     this exercise three years ago.
11
              THE COURT: Sure. And is there privilege being asserted over some of the communications 12 13
     between Ms. Mogul and Mr. Cuomo based on her status 14
     as his counsel at the time?
              MS. GLAVIN: I think it would have been -- 15
16
              MR. DELIKAT: There were none on the topic.
17
              MS. GLAVIN: Okay. Yeah, I was going to 18
     say, Mike, you know -- excuse me -- Mr. Delikat 19
     would know better than I would.
20
              THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead. Go ahead, 21
     Mr. Delikat. I won't interrupt you -- 22
              MR. DELIKAT: Thank you, Judge.
23
              THE COURT: -- any further.
24
              MR. DELIKAT: Yes. Plaintiff's counsel 25 made the same request to us, and we objected and

said because Mogul did not make any such statement, there are no documents responsive to this request.

And so, you know, with respect to this allegation that Ms. Mogul said this was grooming and it wasn't sexual harassment, it's been clear, and from Ms. Mogul's testimony in front of the AG, that she never brought up the term or used the word "grooming." In fact, it was Ms. Bennett that brought that up in the conversation with Ms. Mogul. So the whole question here is built on a faulty presumption.

We've denied that quite clearly. We just didn't object to it, but we said there was no such statement made, and we produced all the documents, you know, relevant around this, you know, including Ms. Mogul's notes of a conversation that she had with Ms. Bennett.

THE COURT: Okay. So that was the other thing I wanted to confirm. It sounds like, based on what Ms. Glavin said, that to the extent there are any nonprivileged communications or other documents between Ms. Mogul and Mr. Cuomo about Ms. Bennett's allegations, complaint, assertions, that Mr. Cuomo has produced those.

Is it fair to say that Ms. Mogul has done

1
     the same?
 2
              MR. DELIKAT: Yes.
 3
              THE COURT: Okay. All right.
 4
              Ms. Green, anything else you want to say on 5
     RFP number 70?
 6
              MS. GREEN:
                           Thank you, Your Honor.
7
              Only that to the extent that Mr. Morvillo, 8
     on behalf of Defendant Mogul, did say that there are 9
     no responsive documents in response to a similar request, the difference here is only that 10
11
     Ms. Glavin -- Defendant Cuomo responded saying that 12
     they are withholding responsive documents. And so 13
     if there are responsive documents, we only ask, 14
     based on what objections are they maintaining that withholding. And if there are no responsive 15
16
     documents, as, you know, we have not been bringing 17
     the same request to your attention in the case of Defendant Mogul because if there are no responsive 18 19
     documents, there are no responsive documents, 20
     there's nothing further that can be done.
21
              THE COURT: Okay. Just clarify, it was
     Mr. Delikat not Mr. Morvillo, but -- 22
23
              MS. GREEN: Oh. So sorry.
24
                          It's okay. It's okay.
              THE COURT:
25
     lot of people to keep track of.
```

1
              But, Ms. Glavin, is there anything being 2 withheld as to number 70?
 3
              MS. GLAVIN: Judge, no.
 4
               THE COURT:
                           Okay.
 5
              MS. GLAVIN:
                           No. No. That was the issue
     with -- I -- you know, I probably should have taken 6 7
     advice from Mr. Delikat to say Ms. Mogul didn't say 8
     that.
 9
              THE COURT: Okay.
10
              MS. GLAVIN: That should have been the 11 response.
12
              THE COURT: All right.
13
              MS. GLAVIN: It could have saved us all 14
     this trouble.
15
               THE COURT: All right. So at this time I'm 16
     not going to require any further production by Mr.
17
     Cuomo in response to RFP number 70. This is all 18
     obviously subject to questioning at depositions.
19
     And then I have no doubt that the parties will have 20
     numerous post-deposition follow-up requests.
21
               So if this remains an issue, it can be 22 raised again. But as of today, the record does not 23
     support requiring further action with respect to RFP 24
     number 70. Okay.
25 Anything else on Ms. Bennett's side of
```

1 things with respect to any of the defendants' 2 productions or other issues before I turn to the issues that have been raised as to Ms. Bennett? 3 4 MS. GREEN: Not at this time, Your Honor. 5 THE COURT: Okay. Wonderful. Thank you. 6 All right. So then --7 MR. EISENBERG: Excuse me, Your Honor. 8 THE COURT: Yes. 9 MR. EISENBERG: This is Herb Eisenberg for 10 Ms. Bennett. 11 THE COURT: Yes. MR. EISENBERG: There is an issue that I'd 12 13 like to raise. I don't know if this is the 14 appropriate time. But yesterday evening, we received a letter from defendants telling us that 15 16 plaintiff's deposition, which was scheduled for next 17 week, is going to be put off, and also telling us 18 that our depositions of the four defendants, which 19 are presently scheduled for dates in April and early 20 May, are also going to be put off. 21 This morning, we wrote to defendants 22 stating, we can't force you to take plaintiff's 23 deposition, but we have no intention to put off the 24 depositions of the four named defendants that are Schedules have been made to 25 presently scheduled.

It is imperative that we move this case forward. The discovery cutoff is coming up fast upon us, and we don't feel there's any legitimate rationale for defendants to tell us we can't be taking the depositions that have been noticed since October and early December. We are ready to go. We would like to take those depositions. We'd like to move this case forward.

And if I might add, this is a similar pattern to what happened in the Trooper 1 case, and it is concerning to us. We don't want to get mired in motion practice and letters going back and forth about the opportunity to take depositions were -- which were rightfully noticed and which we are willing to proceed with.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I think I have made very clear my aversion to chaos, and so I have nothing in writing from anybody about this. If this just came up last night and the parties have only just exchanged letters, then you have not met and conferred about this issue.

So I appreciate you raising it,
Mr. Eisenberg, but with all due respect, the parties need to work through that issue themselves first.

And we're going to be setting another date for a conference in the case. If the parties haven't worked it out by then, then we will raise it.

But I am not going to do issues on the fly that came up last night. That is not an efficient or a productive way for us to be dealing with issues. That's the very reason why I require you to file letters with me well in advance of our conferences so that we have an orderly way of dealing with issues.

MR. EISENBERG: Your Honor, I --

THE COURT: So I appreciate you raising it, but I am not going to rule on that issue today.

MR. EISENBERG: I certainly understand the aversion to address issues on the fly, and we similarly feel it would have been appropriate for this to come before the Court, certainly, prior to this, now, presentation.

Our first deposition, plaintiff's deposition, is scheduled for March 27th. That's now been put off. The following deposition is scheduled for April 11th, and that's Ms. DeRosa.

I understand we can meet and confer about this, but this just landed on our desks yesterday evening, and it is quite disconcerting. Hotel

1 reservations have been made, schedules have been 2 made, travel plans have been made, all in 3 anticipation of this going forward. 4 As a matter of fact, last Monday --5 actually, this Monday -- forgive me -- we were told 6 we're going to go forward with these depositions, so 7 they were confirmed. The opportunity to cancel 8 plans is much more difficult when it is on such 9 short notice. 10 THE COURT: All right. I understand your 11 frustration. 12 Is there anything that any of the 13 defendants' counsel want to briefly, briefly say on 14 this issue, mindful that I am not ruling on it 15 today? 16 MS. GLAVIN: Yes, Your Honor. 17 THE COURT: Go ahead, Ms. Glavin. 18 MS. GLAVIN: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. Rita 19 Glavin, on behalf of former Governor Cuomo. 20 All I want to do is make a record and 21 appreciate exactly what you just said about not ruling on this. 22 23 I think, in our March 15th status letter to 24 the Court, we made clear that there were many, many 25 documents that Ms. Bennett had improperly redacted.

On Monday night, Ms. Bennett produced 12,000 pages of documents to the parties that removed those redactions. The redactions in just -- you know, we only were able to start looking at this sometime on Tuesday, but in the sliver that we saw, there are, you know, at least 1,000 new messages, we think, just by back-of-the-envelope math that have now been unredacted in conversations that were previously produced.

As Your Honor might imagine, in preparing -- a lot of time has been spent preparing for Mr. Bennett's deposition. And what happened is that plaintiff, after we've repeatedly raised, over and over again in meet and confers and e-mails, issues with respect to the redactions that we believed were unresponsive information and relevant information kept coming back to us and saying it was not responsive.

We began providing examples. Provided examples of a 12-page text exchange between

Ms. Bennett and a political operative by the name of Erica Vladimer, where there were numerous redactions, and that conversation took place during the Attorney General's investigation. It discussed Ms. Bennett's harassment allegations. It discussed the AG investigation. It discussed Ms. Bennett's deposition. And within 24 hours, then they produced an unredacted version of the 12-page exchange, and there were highly relevant texts that had been improperly redacted.

We had a meet and confer. Following the meet and confer, we sent this letter to the Court. And what plaintiff did on Monday night was reproduce her entire production of the thousands of text messages. And it has put us in a position -- it just put us in a very difficult position because we spent weeks reviewing the 12,000 pages we had. Now, they've all been unredacted, and we have to review those.

In addition, you know, we detailed -- what we sent last night was a six-page, single-space letter that went through the issues that we have had with the productions after they had represented to the Court and to us that they were complete, including missing information on the -- on Ms. Bennett's cell phone, e-mail accounts that we have seen that we needed to understand whether they've been searched. There are redactions to Ms. Bennett's medical records and with her -- with respect to her prescription records. We've asked to get those. We still don't have them. And so all -because of this, we were forced to have to put this off because we can't prepare. And this also impacts -- this also impacts the preparation of our own clients' depositions.

In addition, what I expect we will be doing -- and we have already raised this with plaintiff's counsel -- is there are many, many pages of text messages that counsel has omitted, just simply did not produce. One example that I saw last night deals with Ms. Bennett communicating with one of her closest friends. And she regularly communicated with this woman about the governor, about her job, about what was happening.

There are some 40 pages of text messages missing from her communications with that friend between May 15th and May 18th of 2020. Those dates are critical because there are six paragraphs in Ms. Bennett's complaint devoted to her interactions with Governor Cuomo on May 15th. And we have repeatedly been told that these omissions are not responsive.

Because of what we have seen in redactions that we were told were because they were not responsive and then turned out that they were, we expect to file a motion before Your Honor to do an in-camera review of some of these because of our concerns.

But I just wanted to make the record that the issue of this being put off -- we had all been planning to go forward. We had the videographer, you know, court reporter scheduled, all of us. I have moved around other obligations to make myself available for this, but we're unable to do it.

And at the same time, we need the documents, particularly as it goes to comments about my client, what he said, what he did on certain days. I need that to prep Andrew Cuomo. And so I, you know, took plaintiffs at their word when they told the Court that this was complete, they produced everything that was responsive. It's not.

And it's certainly -- I'm unhappy on a bunch of levels. And it's not gamesmanship on our part. I have a pretty full schedule with other professional obligations, and this has thrown that into whack. It has also thrown in -- days I plan to prep with my client into whack.

So I just want Your Honor to know that, you know, this is not -- we're not doing gamesmanship.

And I don't think comparing anything happening in the Trooper 1 case to this case -- it's apples and These are two different cases, entirely oranges. different sets of allegations, different witnesses, different third parties. So I want to make a record on that. And I think -- you know, we have until June 30th to get this done. We have made clear to plaintiff's counsel, our goal is to get it done by then, but we're going to have to readjust depositions because of this production. And I defer because I think some of my co-counsel may want to be heard on this as well. THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Ms. Glavin. MR. DELIKAT: Yeah. Yes, Your Honor. Mr. Delikat. I'd like to briefly be heard also, if that's okay. THE COURT: Yes, go ahead. Briefly. MR. DELIKAT: Yeah. So --THE COURT: This is --MR. DELIKAT: Yeah. In a letter to the Court last week sent by Ms. Trzaskoma, I believe, there was discussed, albeit in a short form, issues with respect to the production of medical and therapist records. THE COURT: Yeah, I assumed we would get to that in this call.

MR. DELIKAT: Right. And so I just want to give you one example of the issues that relate to that.

As you know, there are claims for extensive emotional distress and pain and suffering in this case. It's not a garden-variety emotional-distress case, and, therefore, that gives the defendants the right to have access to the plaintiff's medical records and therapy records, as well as to do an examination of her by, you know, an expert forensic psychiatrist.

One of the most important issues is

Ms. Bennett was seeing a Cynthia Haupt, who was her therapist, and she was seeing Dr. Haupt at the time.

Almost all of the allegations in this case with respect to harassment were things that Ms. Mogul said or did during the same period of time.

We were provided with Cynthia Haupt's records, 41 pages that were almost totally illegible. We asked the other side at the time to have Ms. Haupt dictate those notes or provide us with legible copies, given the significance and the importance of this particular period in time when Ms. Bennett was regularly seeing Ms. Haupt for therapy and talking about her own mental state at the time of the underlying allegations of the complaint.

We were told -- at the time, the first response was, there's no obligation under the Federal Rules for us to do anything other than turn over completely illegible notes. That's your particular problem. And that's all they were going to do.

We met and conferred with the plaintiff's counsel and said, look, this doesn't make sense.

We're going to have to, now, serve a third-party deposition notice on Ms. Haupt and have her just come in and read her notes first, and then go from there with respect to that.

They then came around to a position that if we paid for Ms. Haupt -- her time at $220 an hour -- to transcribe those notes in a legible fashion, they would turn those over. We agreed to do that. This was last week. We agreed to do that, and we said we absolutely needed to have them by today. When we followed up with plaintiff's counsel this week, they told us they've been unable to reach Ms. Haupt.

In addition to the illegibility of the notes, there were six pages of the 41 pages that were cut off in the original scan that were provided This is the kind of critical information to us. that we need in order to question Ms. Bennett and prepare our witnesses for this, and prepare our forensic psychiatrists for this with respect to the deposition. And just an example of things that are coming up in our ongoing disputes with respect to deficiencies that are causing us not to be ready and to ask specifically that the entire schedule be rolled forward, most importantly, that it definitely be completed by June 30th. But that we maintain the order of the witnesses that we agreed to based upon representations that the productions had been made complete by plaintiff, which they made long before we received all of these late productions this week, and still haven't received any transcription of Dr. Haupt's notes.

And one other thing, just on the medical record side, we've asked for copies of her prescription medications, which she was taking numerous prescription medications at the time that all of these underlying events occurred, and we've been essentially stonewalled with respect to that.

We said she could easily -- the first response to that was, it's not within her custody and control. Well, all she needed to do was to go to the pharmacy where she got these prescriptions and get copies of those, or if she has an online app, as most people do these days, you know, for their medication, all of those prescription records would be readily available on an online app for her prescriptions. These are the kinds of critical records -we're not talking about little deficiencies. are major deficiencies that prevent us from sufficiently preparing for her deposition and preparing our clients to be able to respond to --THE COURT: Great. That's fine, Mr. Delikat, but why didn't you put in a letter by the deadline that I set for you to raise all this? You're throwing a bunch of things at me that nobody has explained --MR. DELIKAT: Because I -- Your Honor --THE COURT: I am not going to rule on medical records if you haven't raised it with me. MR. DELIKAT: Your Honor, we appreciate that, and we understand that. We're just making a record on this because this all happened this week. So the issue was raised as to the deficiency in medical records. These specific

1 issues, we thought were being worked out. 2 thought we would have legible copies of Dr. Haupt's 3 notes because we agreed to pay her $220 an hour to transcribe them. And all we're told this week, 4 5 without any further update, is, we've been unable to reach her and no prescription record. 6 7 So this is all happening in real time. 8 appreciate, and we respect, obviously, your order 9 with respect to that, but there's some exigency here 10 and emergency as to what's going on, that we 11 couldn't do it last week because they told us they would give us this stuff and they haven't. 12 13 THE COURT: All right. 14 Anything else that any of the defendants' 15 counsel wants to just raise briefly with respect to 16 scheduling of depositions, mindful, for the fourth time, I am not ruling on scheduling today. 17 18 MR. HAMID: Your Honor --19 MR. MORVILLO: Yes, Your Honor. THE COURT: Mr. Hamid and then 20 21 Mr. Morvillo. 22 MR. MORVILLO: Okay. 23 MR. HAMID: I'm sorry, Greg. 24 Just very, very quickly, Your Honor, I just 25 wanted to underscore a point that my co-defense counsel have raised, which is, it is all of our intention to try to work on this, to get it done within the June 30th deadline. No one's happy about the schedule being upset.

And so I just wanted to underscore the point: This is not gamesmanship or an attempt to delay. We want to work it out, figure out a schedule that works for everyone, consistent with the order that was agreed, and still finishing in time. That's all I wanted to say.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Mr. Morvillo?

MR. MORVILLO: Thank you, Your Honor.

I wanted to point out that Ms. DeRosa is the first defendant who will be deposed in this case on the present schedule. And we agreed to be first defendant out, understanding that we would go after Ms. Bennett. And we made that agreement based on plaintiff's representation that they were finished producing documents. And as Ms. Trzaskoma's letter to the Court demonstrates, they're nowhere near finished producing documents.

And they have been hiding the ball on us for months now because there are videos that were redacted. And when we pressed the issue, they unredacted them. But they told us that those redactions were not responsive. That was wrong.

Those redactions, many of them, were highly relevant to this case.

Then with the text messages that -- we received 12,000 unredacted text messages this week. After we go forward, then we receive text messages from them. And the same thing: We were told, these are not responsive. And yet, many of them are highly relevant to this.

It is unfair to ask us to continue along this schedule when plaintiffs have been playing games with the discovery, when they haven't met their burden, when they misrepresented the fact that they went forward. And so this particularly impacts Ms. DeRosa because she's April 11th as of right now.

And so we still don't have all of their production. We're still missing documents. And I don't see how we can be preparing for Ms. Bennett, reviewing their documents that are very, very late in the production and still trying to prepare Ms. DeRosa, when we don't have all of their information.

There may be conversations about Ms. DeRosa that are in their documents that we need to see, but

1 they haven't produced them because they're claiming 2 nonresponsive over certain things that we look at 3 them, we see massive responsiveness. So we are very concerned about this, and 4 5 that's all I will say. Thank you, Your Honor. 6 THE COURT: Thank you. 7 Mr. Eisenberg --8 MR. EISENBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. 9 THE COURT: -- there's a lot to respond to 10 there. It's not necessary because, again, I am not 11 ruling on this. But if there are any points that 12 you very, very briefly want to resolve -- because I 13 do want to get to the issues that actually were raised in the parties' letters. 14 15 MR. EISENBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. 16 couple of things. 17 One, unless defendants intend to tailor 18 their testimony at depositions, plaintiff's videos 19 of herself, her medical records, the notes of her 20 therapist, her pharmacy records, none of that has 21 any role in our depositions of defendants. 22 Defendants' depositions should go forward. 23 It is nothing that we have withheld that should 24 alter anything that they say. As long as they

answer truthfully and from their memory and experience, there is nothing that they seek from us that will inform them.

That being said, we dispute a lot of what has been said. For example, Dr. Haupt's medical records has been with defendants for months, at least two months, and we're hearing about this now on the eve of her deposition. We need to move this case forward. I fear that defendants aren't interested in doing so.

They want to blame us. They can blame us and go ahead and do that. We have responses to everything that has been said. We don't want to curtail our depositions of defendants.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Okay.

So then, Ms. Glavin, initially you had raised the issue of the sealing of the videos. Is that now resolved?

It sounds like the videos were de-redacted, or whatever you want to say, unsealed, and you now have the full videos. Is there anything remaining as to the videos?

MS. GLAVIN: Yeah. The only thing I just wanted to raise, Your Honor, is plaintiff's counsel had filed a letter with the Court on Wednesday of this week --

THE COURT: Yes.

MS. GLAVIN: And I just -- they have now agreed to de-designate confidentiality designations on the videos, but I do think it's important to make a record about what happened here.

We had met and conferred about that confidentiality designation on the videos. And at that time that we met and conferred -- that was on February 22nd -- we were talking only about the redacted videos that Ms. Bennett provided, and we said we did not think the designations were appropriate.

We were told, in no uncertain terms, by plaintiff's counsel throughout that meet and confer, absolutely not, would they not ever agree that they shouldn't be marked confidential. We were told repeatedly to go to Your Honor if we wanted to challenge it, that they were quite comfortable Your Honor would agree with them, and to go to the Court.

So, as a result, we spent a lot of time and resources writing our letter to the Court on March 15th about why it should be de-designated.

And we then got an e-mail from Ms. Katz on Tuesday or Wednesday of this week doing a complete 180, saying, yeah, we'll no longer make them

confidential, and will you revoke your letter?

And it was upsetting to us because of the amount of time that we spent on a letter. You know, we keep hearing about, we're wasting taxpayer dollars. To make us go through that exercise -- and I said to Ms. Katz in an e-mail, like, we want to raise the issue of cost that we had to go through this exercise. And then write a letter to the Court saying, yeah, we've decided not to do this, after they made us write the letter.

So we're very frustrated, and we think it's appropriate that we should get costs for having to go through that exercise and spend our time and effort writing that letter to the Court.

On the issue of the videos, yes, they have now agreed, as they should have back on February 22nd, when they told us and made us go to Your Honor and made Your Honor read the letter, and then that it said, no, sorry.

So I think I -- very frustrated about that, and I just want the Court to know about it. And I think you should consider addressing that with plaintiff's counsel, why they made us write this letter.

THE COURT: All right. Ms. Bennett's counsel, who wants to respond to Ms. Glavin on the videos?

MS. GREEN: Hi, Your Honor. Rachel Green on behalf of Ms. Bennett.

It is plaintiff's position that there is no longer a dispute as to these videos. I'll respond only very briefly to avoid embroiling the Court further in this issue.

But following the February 26th hearing and defendants' repeated requests to see the unredacted videos in the interest of proceeding with discovery, we did produce all seven videos without redactions to defendants. Defendants, following that, never raised their designation objections, and plaintiff believed that the designation issue was no longer a live dispute. And so we were surprised to see the filing on Friday, Docket 215, limiting his de-designation request to the redacted videos.

And so, in light of all the live discovery disputes, and, again, in the interest of not unduly burdening the Court, we did agree to de-designate the redacted videos, other than the ten seconds of that one identified video. And so, again, we believe this is no longer a dispute, and that we

1 object vehemently to Defendant Cuomo's pursuit of 2 fees for this. 3 And that is our position on the matter. 4 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. I'm going to deny the request for costs at 5 6 this time. When we get to the end of fact 7 discovery, we'll have, I'm sure, a lot of issues 8 about -- I hope that we don't have issues about 9 spoliation, but to the extent that there are 10 sanctions, costs, all that, we'll deal with it at 11 the end of fact discovery. 12 So the request for costs with respect to 13 the videos is denied without prejudice. 14 Next issue raised with respect to Ms. Bennett's production is the relevance and 15 16 privacy redactions, but based on some things I heard 17 a little while ago, it sounds like there were some 18 additional productions by Ms. Bennett earlier this 19 week, so I am not sure if this is still a live 20 issue. 21 Ms. Glavin? 22 MS. GLAVIN: Yes, Your Honor. A couple of 23 things on that. 24 One is, following our letter -- the 25 reproduction happened on Monday night. We are still going through that. We still have seen some redactions in there, but given the freshness of the production, I am not in a position to catalog them. And I think there are still redactions that exist in her medical records. And Mr. Delikat, Mogul's counsel, may be in a better position to raise that.

The issue with respect to -- I mean, there are omitted pages in the text messages. I think that, to us, also falls into the redaction category, but I think we will be raising that with the Court. And it will impact -- it will certainly impact the deposition schedule depending on what we get from them.

But there are, again -- I mean, one that's just sticking in my craw is the 40 pages of missing text messages from Ms. Bennett's production between May 15, 2020 and May 18, 2020 with her good friend, William McEnaney (phonetic), who she, on an almost daily basis, is discussing the governor, her mental health, working in the chamber, et cetera. And given the importance of the May 15th date and the six paragraphs in her complaint dealing with May 15th, we think that those omissions were improper. And we keep getting told blanketly that any pages they didn't produce, you know, were because they were not responsive.

We are questioning that based on what we have been told already was not responsive, such as redactions to the videos, redactions to other text messages that we now see had highly relevant information, which is why I think we're going to have to bring it to the Court to do in camera, you know, and have Your Honor look at it, which I regret having to do.

And then on that issue, there's one thing I wanted to raise because they're saying that our clients' depositions shouldn't be rescheduled because of documents that are not produced because they're going to "tailor their testimony." I do want to raise something with Your Honor on this point, which I think is unique.

With respect to my client, the former governor, during this period of time -- I mean, he does not have, and he did not have an e-mail account, and he doesn't have access to all the materials from the Executive Chamber. And so a lot of us are being able to put together, because of the thousands of things that were going on with him in, you know, 2019 and 2020 and 2021, when Ms. Bennett was in the Chamber, and then when she made her allegations, is we have to piece together dates and times, and it's not Governor Cuomo tailoring his recollection. There's core materials that we've been getting in discovery that go and actually help trigger his memory: Oh, that did happen on this date. Yes, something like that was discussed, I can't remember, et cetera.

So the plaintiff's production is very, very important, you know, for his preparation, not to tailor it. I mean, he's already testified before the AG about Ms. Bennett, but it's certainly in terms of a chronology, and it also puts us in a position to ask the Executive Chamber to give us certain e-mails, you know, that might deal with what the governor was doing, you know, at times

Ms. Bennett is having text communication saying what's going on in the chamber.

So it impacts that, and it impacts how we are able to prepare him, you know, given, I think, the uniqueness of the hundreds of things going on at that time, particularly as it relates to a core time period in this, which is the early part of 2020.

So I just wanted Your Honor to appreciate that because it's a unique situation for me with a client, that there was a lot going on, and he does

1 not have, you know, e-mails and all of the 2 information he would have at his fingertips when he 3 was sitting in that job. 4 THE COURT: Okay. So I don't need to rule 5 on anything with respect to the relevance and 6 privacy redactions as of today. 7 MS. GLAVIN: Yes, so long as we have a 8 representation from plaintiff's counsel that there 9 are no redactions anymore based on the privacy and 10 relevance. 11 THE COURT: All right. 12 Ms. Green, do you or one of your colleagues 13 want to respond? 14 MS. GREEN: Happy to, Your Honor. This is Rachel Green. 15 So I understand that there's one document 16 17 that was identified in last night's letter -- I have 18 not yet gotten a chance to review it -- that perhaps 19 was inadvertently continuing to contain redactions. I will take a look at it. 20 21 But other than that one identified document, it is, indeed, plaintiff's representation 22 23 that there are no additional redactions, other than as stated in our filing, of the SSN of our client. 24 25 THE COURT: Sorry. I lost what you said.

     Social Security number, that's what you meant?
 2
              MS. GREEN: Yes. Yes. Sorry, Your Honor.
 3
     Yes, Social Security number. And with that, it is 4
     our position that there is no further dispute on the 5
     issues raised in defendant's filing on Friday.
 6
              THE COURT: Oh, so --
 7
              MS. GLAVIN: But I just want to -- Your 8
     Honor?
 9
               THE COURT: Just let me clarify what 10
     Ms. Green said, and then I'll let you respond in a 11
     second.
12
               So what you're saying is that, aside from 13
     the one document addressed in a letter that the 14 defendants sent you last night, which you'll look into, the only redactions in what Ms. Bennett 15
16
     produced this week are of her Social Security 17
     number.
18
              MS. GREEN: Yes, that is correct.
19
              THE COURT: All right.
20
              Ms. Glavin?
21
              MS. GLAVIN: Judge, I just want to be very clear, make sure that this is clear, and for Your 22
23
     Honor to weigh in on this, that they should not -- 24
     plaintiff's counsel cannot be making redactions 25 based on relevance or privacy.
```

1 THE COURT: I mean, there is a 2 confidentiality order in place. 3 MS. GLAVIN: Exactly. There's a protective order in 4 THE COURT: 5 place in this case, Ms. Green. So why do we even need to redact Ms. Bennett's Social Security number 6 7 at this point? 8 MS. GREEN: Respectfully, Your Honor, the 9 reason for doing that is because defendants have, 10 unfortunately, already accidentally filed something 11 unsealed that was supposed to be filed under seal, 12 and so we are greatly concerned at especially the 13 potential impact of even an accidental filing in the 14 future if plaintiff's Social Security number is revealed. And we don't see any reason for them to 15 16 have it. And if they need it for some reason, we can provide it separately, but we would prefer to 17 18 keep those redacted to maintain her privacy. 19 THE COURT: All right. 20 I mean, Ms. Glavin, can you tell from 21 the -- I realize you just got the documents on 22 Monday, but are you able to tell from the context 23 that, yes, it really only is the Social Security 24 number that's being redacted? 25 And if there's some that you have doubts about, that you think it's more than just a Social Security number, then in the first instance, you can raise it with Ms. Green.

But what she's representing is the only thing that they've redacted is the Social Security number, which I understand there's a protective order in place in this case, but I'm trying not to have another round of having unredacted documents produced.

So if that's the representation, but if you have a concern about something where you think it's more than just Social Security number, can we just table that for you to raise it with Ms. Green in the first instance? And then if I need to look at it, then I'll look at it.

MS. GLAVIN: Yes.

Your Honor, let's put the Social Security number to the side here because I think that's, sort of, less of an issue here. What we would like from Your Honor is to instruct plaintiff's counsel that they cannot be redacting for relevance or privacy, given the protective order in the case, which is what they had done in the production of, you know, thousands of pages of documents, that they cannot be doing that.

And then once we have that from Your Honor, there should not be an issue. I mean, I can tell you from the sliver we've looked at, there are still some redactions, but I think if Your Honor makes that clear today, it makes any meet and confer much easier if we have a problem.

THE COURT: All right. Well, no one has convinced me that anybody should be redacting -- any party in this case -- not addressing nonparties -- but no one, in what I've heard today or to date in this case, has convinced me that there needs to be redactions for relevance or privacy because there's a protective order in this case.

Based on Ms. Bennett's counsel representation, that the only thing that she has redacted is the Social Security number, as a pragmatic matter, I'm not going to require her to do another round of unredactions. But if any of the defendants have a concern about a document that Ms. Bennett has produced that has redactions, and they think it's more than the Social Security number, then that would not be in compliance with my ruling. All right?

MS. GLAVIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

The last issue that I think was raised in 1 2 the letter, and then I'll give you a chance to 3 clarify, was the phone extraction. 4 Based on your letter, Ms. Glavin, it 5 sounded like the parties were still discussing that 6 issue, but is there anything you want to elaborate 7 on? 8 MS. GLAVIN: Yes, Your Honor. 9 I believe we're at an impasse with respect 10 to the phone extraction. And I think that 11 Mr. Morvillo's colleague, Sarah Sulkowski --12 Sarah, I am going to mispronounce your name, and I apologize. 13 14 MS. SULKOWSKI: It's okay. Sulkowski. 15 Don't worry about it. 16 THE COURT: Hold on. All right. 17 Ms. Sulkowski, do you want to raise -- oh, 18 go ahead. 19 MS. GLAVIN: Yeah, but just one issue is, 20 Your Honor, we believe that Ms. Bennett's phone 21 needs to be fully imaged. It's clear to us that it was not. And, you know, one example is that the --22 23 you know, these thousands of pages of text messages don't have timestamps. We have a date stamp, but 24 25 they don't have timestamps. And that information is critical to us, particularly as she's talking about events on certain days in real time, as to what she said to whom, when, about what.

And we have asked for the timestamps and that they are certainly going to be on her phone, and it would be in the metadata, and we don't have that, and so we believe that the phone needs to be imaged. But I will let my co-counsel, Ms. DeRosa's counsel, also speak to this.

THE COURT: All right.

Ms. Sulkowski?

MS. SULKOWSKI: Thank you, Your Honor. Sarah Sulkowski, for Melissa DeRosa.

So I think the concept of metadata is familiar. Standard electronic discovery instructions and the instructions that we included with our document requests in this case provide for the processing of metadata; for example, by requiring that families of documents be linked within an electronic production. We expressly asked for that.

The result would be, of course, that once the production is loaded into a database, like Relativity or a similar database, documents that are embedded in or attached to, for example, an e-mail or a text message would be related as child documents to that parent message and would be able to be viewed as such. They would also likely appear sequentially within the production as it was reviewed in the software.

Metadata also includes things like timestamps, as Ms. Glavin mentioned, on text messages. And as we all know from our own text messaging, our phones keep track of the time each message was sent, and standard e-discovery software preserves and provides that information, which, again, we expressly requested here.

So none of that was done here. There are numerous text and e-mail messages that clearly contained or attached photographs, documents, or other materials where the attachments are missing and not linked in any way to the messages. In fact, it's unclear whether the attachments were provided to us at all. And if they were, it's impossible to determine which ones went with which messages. Nor do we have timestamps for most of the messages that were produced. And, as Ms. Glavin said, that's key information here where contemporaneous messages were being sent during the events at issue.

To take just one example, CB-00004958 is a page of a text chain between plaintiff and Lindsey Boylan. It's marked confidential, so I'm not going to read it, but it shows that an image or images were sent in December 2020 by Boylan to Bennett in the context of a conversation about Governor Cuomo. The embedded image, or images, aren't linked to the document. It's entirely unclear whether we received them, or, if so, where they appear in these dozens of thousands of pages that plaintiff has produced. A standard phone extraction tool would have linked these files as a family, and that needs to be done here.

Plaintiff never objected to our electronic discovery instructions in this case, much less notified us that they wouldn't be providing key metadata. And so, as we've received each deficient production, defendants have gone back to plaintiff's counsel and requested the metadata, only to be told that it wouldn't be produced because plaintiff has given us what she has.

The software that plaintiff used on her phone is called iMazing. The limitations of this software are well known. There is a publication last year by The Sedona Conference, which is a legal nonprofit, which points out that iMazing "may not extract all information, such as images or photos that are sent via text message. The collection and subsequent production may be incomplete if non-extracted information is responsive to the document request. It is important to understand the limitations of collection tools and discuss these with opposing counsel so an agreement can be reached."

That was never done. If plaintiff had notified us she was going to be using this kind of software, we would never have agreed, and we would have sought Court intervention at that time. When we realized it was occurring, we tried to work with plaintiff to get the necessary information on a rolling basis, but we've gotten flat refusals. And, in fact, we've had to demand even basic information, like the dates on which certain messages and recordings were sent.

This just isn't a workable way to conduct discovery in a high-stakes federal litigation. The information is not available from another source.

It is uniquely within plaintiff's possession, custody and control, and it's plainly responsive and highly relevant.

And so we need plaintiff's phone to be

1 properly imaged and the results provided to us immediately, and then we'll need to review those 2 3 results before depositions can commence, and so this is an issue of urgency. 4 5 Thank you, Your Honor. 6 THE COURT: How many problematic text 7 messages have you identified? 8 MS. SULKOWSKI: Certainly hundreds. 9 THE COURT: Hundreds? 10 MS. SULKOWSKI: Yeah. 11 THE COURT: And from a particular time period or, kind of, across the board? 12 13 MS. SULKOWSKI: It's across the board, 14 There are very few embedded images or Your Honor. documents that are accessible within the sequential 15 16 production, if any, frankly. 17 THE COURT: And from what Ms. Boylan has 18 produced to date, have you been able to identify, 19 you know, for example, a message that Ms. Bennett 20 sent to Ms. Boylan that appeared to have 21 attachments, and the copy in Ms. Bennett's 22 production doesn't have the attachments, but in 23 Ms. Boylan's production it does? 24 MS. SULKOWSKI: We haven't had the chance 25 to cross-reference this production that we just received, so I will say I don't know. But given the volume that Ms. Boylan has produced to date, it's exceedingly unlikely that that's going to solve the problem. THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Ms. Green, you or one of your colleagues want to respond on the phone? MS. GREEN: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. This is Rachel Green. THE COURT: Yep. MS. GREEN: A number of issues to respond to, but just to try to keep it as brief as possible,

MS. GREEN: A number of issues to respond to, but just to try to keep it as brief as possible, this issue about iMazing and e-discovery, defendants are raising that for the first time today. We did not know until this moment that they had an issue with our use of iMazing, and they have had at least some of plaintiff's text messages with iMazing located on the documents since December 2023. So this is news to us. We do not believe that this is a ripe issue for the Court's attention today.

As far as the other issues that were raised in the filing from defendants on phone extraction, we did use iMazing to download the phone. As we have repeated across multiple meet and confers and e-mails, the information that we have provided to them, the metadata that we have, is the information that we also have available to us.

To the extent that families are not linked or attachments are not included, we do not have them. I do not know enough about technology to be able to explain why we do not have them, but I can represent that if an attachment is not included or if metadata is not included, it is because it is not available to us. And I want to note, if a responsive attachment -- obviously, if the attachment is not responsive, we would not have provided it.

But we have repeatedly told defendants this, and it's my understanding that their inclusion of this complaint in their letter to the Court is -- and I understand their perspective, that they are frustrated with the answer, which is that there is not anything else to provide.

And also, I want to note, if we are going to be keeping a thorough record today, just that with respect to several of the key conversations in particular, plaintiff had collected screenshots of those conversations in the course of gathering documents responsive to the NY AG production years ago. And in the course of responding to the much

1 broader requests from all four defendants in this case, obviously, plaintiff conducted a second 2 3 thorough review of all documents and texts in her 4 custody, possession or control. And in doing so, we 5 have produced multiple formats of some of those same 6 conversations: PDFs, Excel spreadsheets, text 7 formats. And some of those have timestamps. 8 of them do not. 9 Again, I am not a tech person able to 10 explain to you why some are and are not available, 11 but we have provided what is available to us. THE COURT: Does Ms. Bennett still have the 12 13 phone that she used during 2019, 2020? 14 MS. GREEN: I believe so. She's had two phones, and we have imaged both of them on iMazing, 15 16 and I believe she has both still, yes. 17 THE COURT: Okay. And the image that you 18 have on iMazing, that's an image of the whole phone, 19 or only portions? 20 MS. GREEN: Yes. That is what I have been 21 informed, yes. 22 THE COURT: Okay. All right. 23 Well, I don't know that I have a full 24 record to rule on. It sounds like the defendants 25 are asking me to order the imaging of Ms. Bennett's

1 I would like additional submissions from the 2 parties on this issue. So we'll talk about scheduling in a minute, 3 4 but we'll set up a schedule for the defendants to 5 submit a letter laying out why I should order the 6 imaging of Ms. Bennett's phone and a chance for 7 Ms. Bennett to respond. And then we'll rule on it 8 at the next conference, which is going to be pretty 9 soon, given -- yes? 10 MS. SULKOWSKI: Your Honor, it's Sarah 11 Sulkowski. If I might just correct the record 12 briefly --13 THE COURT: Yes, go ahead. 14 MS. SULKOWSKI: I corresponded with 15 Ms. Green on March 15th several times about iMazing 16 specifically, and so the representation that this is a new issue is simply false. Thank you. 17 18 THE COURT: I understand, but it's pretty 19 new to me because you told me in your letter that 20 you were still meeting and conferring, which is 21 fine --22 MS. SULKOWSKI: Understood. 23 THE COURT: -- but I am not going to order 24 the imaging of Ms. Bennett's phone without a more

              MS. SULKOWSKI: Certainly. I was not 2 suggesting it's not new to Your Honor. Thank you.
 3
              THE COURT: Yeah. Yeah. Okay.
 4
              MS. GREEN: And, Your Honor, this -- 5
              THE COURT: Yes?
 6
              MS. GREEN: This is Rachel Green.
                                                  I just 7
     had one other point, if I may raise -- 8
              THE COURT: Yes.
 9
              MS. GREEN: Back with respect to the 10
     redactions and the removal of redactions, I 11 understand the Court's position on this, and I just 12
     want the record to be clear that your position on 13
     relevancy and privacy redactions applies to the 14
     Cuomo and other defendants' productions as well.
15
              And I want to note again that they did this 16 repeatedly, and they are thousands of pages, in 17 particular, of Defendant Cuomo's production that 18 they have produced with redactions based on 19
     relevancy, particularly from his BlackBerry.
20
     talking about entire pages where it is entirely 21 redacted and on presumably no basis. And we are --
     I know -- I can sense Rita is about to speak, and 22
23
     I -- we are meeting and conferring -- 24
              MS. GLAVIN: No. No, Rachel. No.
                                                   No,
25
     Ms. Green.
```

1 THE COURT: No. If you go back and look at 2 the transcript, I said that the ruling applied to all parties, so ... 3 4 Thank you, Your Honor. MS. GREEN: That is 5 all. 6 MS. GLAVIN: Yep. Yes, Your Honor. 7 And just so that I don't jump out of my 8 seat, but I, kind of, am -- the redactions that were 9 done to Governor Cuomo's BlackBerry, we understood 10 they were done due to responsiveness, not relevancy 11 and privacy. And I have represented repeatedly to 12 plaintiff's counsel, because the exercise, at least 13 with respect to one of the BlackBerrys, was done 14 three years ago with another law firm, we're going to go back and rereview those, and they're going to 15 16 get what they're entitled to. And I agree that 17 relevancy redactions should not be happening, and 18 we're going to turn it over if there's any redaction 19 that's inappropriate. 20 THE COURT: Great. Thank you. All right. 21 Any other issues in the letters that the 22 parties submitted in advance of this conference that 23 I've overlooked that we need to discuss today before 24 we turn to schedules? 25 MS. TRZASKOMA: It's Theresa Trzaskoma.

it --

Just briefly, not raised in our letter, but raised in connection with the de-designation of the videos referenced in the letter that we submitted at ECF 173, as Your Honor will recall, we filed a redacted version of that letter on the public docket because it contained certain content from those videos that had been designated as confidential, so I just want to confirm that we are clear to file an unredacted version of that letter on the public docket. THE COURT: That was ECF 173, you said? MS. TRZASKOMA: Correct. I think it -- so the original filing was under seal -- you know, partially under seal. THE COURT: All right. Ms. Green, any objection? MS. GREEN: I don't have it in front of me, and plaintiff does not object to the extent that there is no mention of the ten seconds that both parties agree should remain confidential, and to the extent that it does not mention, quote, or otherwise provide access to those ten seconds, then plaintiff does not object. THE COURT: Do you know, Ms. Trzaskoma, if

1 MS. TRZASKOMA: Yeah. The letter does not. 2 And we have agreed that those ten seconds of a single video would remain redacted. 3 4 THE COURT: Okay. But does the letter 5 reference those ten seconds or not? 6 MS. TRZASKOMA: No. No. 7 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Then the 8 unredacted version of ECF number 173 can be filed. 9 Thank you. 10 Anything else before we turn to schedules? 11 All right. Just before we actually look at 12 dates, I want to understand -- at a minimum, I'm 13 going to need to decide whether to order the imaging 14 of Ms. Bennett's phone. Ms. Glavin, do you anticipate that 15 16 there's -- you made several references to in-camera 17 documents you were going to want me to review in 18 camera. Do you know yet specifically those issues, 19 or is that an ongoing, evolving subject? 20 MS. GLAVIN: If plaintiff's counsel is 21 persisting in their position that all of the pages 22 they removed from text exchanges are not responsive, 23 then yes. And, I mean, off the top of my head, I've 24 now seen three or four of them, but we're still 25 making our way through the 12,000 pages that came

1 through Monday, so it will take a bit. 2 But just as a practical matter, I'm sure we 3 could tee up, you know, a dozen right now. And it may be that if we tee that up and the Court looks at 4 5 this in camera, that might influence plaintiff's thinking with respect to other omitted pages. 6 7 THE COURT: All right. So there is still 8 an issue with nonresponsive portions of 9 Ms. Bennett's production being withheld. 10 MS. GLAVIN: Yes, Your Honor. 11 THE COURT: Okay. And then the issue with 12 the imaging of her phone. 13 Anything else in camera? Any other 14 in-camera topics at this point? Hoping no. Okay. So the next date that I could have a 15 16 conference with you is the morning of April 2nd. 17 That doesn't give you a whole lot of time to get me 18 letters and anything I would need to review in 19 camera, but I can give you that if you want and you 20 can do your best to give me what you need. Or we 21 can look at the week after, the week of April 8th. I do have some openings then instead. 22 23 MR. MORVILLO: Your Honor, this is Greg 24 Morvillo.

Yes?

THE COURT:

25

MR. MORVILLO: I have a question. 1 Will the April 2nd -- if that's going to be 2 3 the date, will we be discussing the deposition 4 schedule at that point? Because that's after 5 Ms. Bennett's deposition that has already been scheduled and about nine days before Ms. DeRosa is 6 7 scheduled to go, or are we having a different 8 conference for that? 9 THE COURT: No. If you guys haven't worked 10 out the issue by then, then I would want to talk 11 about it on April 2nd, but it sounds like the 12 defendants just sent their letter last night. 13 sounds like you guys have some work to do about 14 talking about schedules before I need to get involved. 15 16 MR. MORVILLO: Okay. We have had a meet 17 and confer about this issue, and we have been told 18 in no uncertain terms then in an e-mail we received 19 this morning from Ms. Schnell, that plaintiffs will 20 not consent to moving the defendants' depositions. 21 And I think someone said it on this call today, so I do think that needs to be teed up as fast as 22 23 possible. 24 THE COURT: Well, as fast as possible that

1
              MR. MORVILLO: Well, if that's the date, 2
     then that's the date. I just wanted to make sure 3 that was on the schedule and that we were going to be dealing with that issue at that time.
 4
                                                Thank you.
 5
               THE COURT:
                           If you guys haven't -- I mean,
 6
     I would strongly encourage you -- there are a lot of 7
     document issues, you know, more on the defendants' 8
     side than the plaintiff's side, but there's some 9 issues on both sides. I would strongly encourage 10 you to use the time next week to see if you can come 11
     to an agreement on rolling the schedule forward.
12
     But if you can't, then we'll discuss it on April 13
     2nd. And if I have to micromanage your calendars, I 14
     will, but you won't like it. That's all I can say.
15
              MR. MORVILLO: Thank you, Your Honor.
16 appreciate that.

              THE COURT:
                           All right.
                                       So --

              MS. GREEN:
                          Your Honor, Rachel Green.
21
              THE COURT: Yes?
22
              MS. GREEN: Just briefly, with respect to 23
     the in-camera documents portion of defendants'
     disputes, I know a few moments ago, defendants' 24
     counsel said, you know, that there are a number of issues with regards to the omission of certain They identified a couple examples for us, I believe, earlier this week. We're looking at them. And I just want to present to Your Honor that we are willing to meet and confer with defendants about this before, again, raising those specific examples to Your Honor. In-camera review may not be required. We're happy to speak with defendants about the examples they've provided. THE COURT: Great. I would love not to have to review anything in camera at this point in time. I'm sure I will at some point, but if I don't have to, then that would be great. So, as I see it, the agenda for April 2nd would be to the extent that the parties haven't come to an agreement on deposition scheduling, the question of the imaging of Ms. Bennett's phone and any withholding or redactions for nonresponsiveness. Those seem to me to be the three issues that we would be checking in about. Are there any other topics at this point that the parties foresee, as we sit here, we would need to address? Okay. Great.
